

Dean, Faculty of Public Affairs

Carleton University is seeking a Dean, Faculty of Public Affairs who is strongly committed to providing visionary leadership. The Faculty is widely known for its engagement in national and international affairs as well as its strong record of cutting edge, interdisciplinary research directed at solving real-world problems.

The Faculty consists of disciplinary and interdisciplinary academic units in Economics, Law, Political Science, International Affairs, Journalism and Communication, Public Policy and Administration, Social Work, Criminology and Criminal Justice, European, Russian and Eurasian Studies and Political Economy. All of these units contribute to research involving the private and public sectors, as well as the voluntary sector. The research conducted by faculty members informs the curriculum of all degrees offered in the Faculty, including the Bachelor of Public Affairs and Policy Management offered through Kroeger College. As Canada's National Capital Region, Ottawa is a major cosmopolitan centre with 12 national museums and a dynamic visual and performing arts scene. It maintains the accessibility, atmosphere and charm of a smaller city situated close to spectacular park and wilderness areas.

Carleton University is strongly committed to fostering diversity within its community as a source of excellence, cultural enrichment and social strength. We welcome those who would contribute to the further diversification of our faculty and its scholarship, including but not limited to: women; persons with disabilities; visible minorities; Aboriginal peoples; and persons of any sexual orientation or gender identity. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply but applications from Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

The Search Committee will begin reviewing applications in October/November, 2010 and will continue until the appointment is completed.
