

Dean, Faculty of Health Sciences University of Ontario Institute of Technology

The University of Ontario Institute of Technology (UOIT) is a market-oriented and research-intensive university recognized for its leadership in technology-enhanced learning. Strategically located in the Greater Toronto Area (GTA), UOIT opened its doors in 2003 and has grown to an enrolment of 8400 students in just 8 years. UOIT invites applications and nominations for the position of Dean of the Faculty of Health Sciences.

The Faculty of Health Sciences offers undergraduate programs across a broad curriculum, including a Bachelor of Health Science (Honours) with specializations in Health Information Management, Kinesiology, and Medical Laboratory Science. In collaboration with the Durham College School of Health and Community Services, the Faculty offers a Bachelor of Science in Nursing program (BScN). Research is supported by graduate degrees with specialty areas in Community Health, Health Informatics and Kinesiology and Human Health Biology.

Research and teaching are led by over 40 faculty members from a broad array of health sciences disciplines. The Faculty has close partnerships with hospitals and community health care agencies across Ontario, providing students and faculty with a diverse range of clinical, research, educational and practical learning experiences.

The Dean is the chief academic officer of the Faculty of Health Sciences and a member of the University's academic leadership team. Reporting to the Provost, s/ he is accountable for the Faculty's strategic vision, for ensuring the academic quality and integrity of its programs and operations, including program accreditation, and for providing leadership towards the enhancement of its research profile. The ideal candidate will be a proven collaborative leader with an exceptional record of achievement, and a commitment to excellence in research, teaching, and university management. Energy and drive, superior communication abilities, and excellent interpersonal skills are required. Appropriate academic credentials are essential.

UOIT is strongly committed to diversity, and welcomes applications from qualified visible minority group members, First Nations, Inuit and Métis peoples, persons with disabilities, members of sexual minority groups, and others who may contribute to further the diversification of ideas. UOIT also offers the opportunity to teach, conduct research and live near one of the most diverse cities in the world - Toronto. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority. Review of applications will begin in January, 2012, and will continue until the position is filled. Please respond in confidence to the address below.
