

MASSEY COLLEGE

in the University of Toronto

Principal

Toronto, ON

A flourishing community of scholarship and ideas, Massey College, affiliated with the University of Toronto, is a unique intellectual environment. Outstanding graduate and professional students across disciplines share in a rich and stimulating residential community along with senior scholars and eminent members of society beyond the academy. Massey College is a partner with the CBC and House of Anansi Press in the annual Massey Lectures, and also organizes several annual symposia, including the Walter Gordon Symposium on Public Policy, the Massey Grand Rounds on medicine and health sciences, and the Massey Franklin Forum in honour of late physicist Ursula Franklin. The College is home to the William Southam Journalism Fellowships and, together with the School of Graduate Studies, supports the Scholars-at-Risk program.

Reporting to the Massey College Governing Board, the Principal is the executive leader, engaging with the College's diverse resident and non-resident community, honouring its traditions, spearheading new ones, and ensuring it serves, reflects, and sets an example for a changing world. A relationship builder with a deep interest in intellectual and scholarly life, you will lead the College community in realizing its mission, to "nourish learning and serve the public good". An advocate for equity, diversity, and inclusion and a mentor to the College's Junior Fellows, you will encourage an academic environment that fosters collegial values and stimulates fresh ideas to benefit society. You will inspire a community of high distinction and ensure a vibrant future by evolving and strengthening the College's financial, physical, and administrative foundations while also promoting its internationally recognized and respected programs.

Your reputation, optimism, and compelling communications will enable significant fundraising success and exciting partnerships. A believer in intergenerational and interdisciplinary exchange as well as in championing the careers of fine minds, you understand that none of this happens without collaboration, material support, and commitment to service. You have dedicated yourself to an ideal before; this one will change some remarkable lives.

Massey College is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially encourages applications from members of racialized groups and visible minorities, women, Indigenous persons, persons with disabilities, members of sexual minority groups, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas. Throughout the recruitment process, accommodations for applicants with disabilities are available upon request.
