Definite Term Lecturer, Physics and Astronomy
University of Waterloo

The Department of Physics and Astronomy in the Faculty of Science at the University of Waterloo invites applicants for one Definite Term Lecturer position. The initial appointment will be for three years, with the possibility of renewal for an additional two or three years. Beyond that, promotion into a Continuing Lecturer position is possible. The expected start date is September 1, 2022.

Applicants must have a PhD in Physics (or equivalent), or in exceptionally qualified cases, an MSc in Physics. Applicants are strongly preferred to have some experience teaching physics at the University level. Applicants must have a strong commitment to undergraduate physics education and excellent organizational and communication skills. We are particularly interested in candidates who have the potential to take a lead role in mentoring, advising, and engaging with students, and those who are familiar with modern pedagogical methods aligned with the latest physics education research. This position will normally have a teaching load of six one-term courses per year and administrative duties as determined by the Chair. Teaching duties include but are not limited to instructing undergraduate Physics and Astronomy classes and laboratory demonstrations for students at all levels in Science and other Faculties. The starting salary range is $75,000 - $95,000 and will be commensurate with experience; negotiations beyond this salary range will be considered for exceptionally qualified candidates. Candidates should submit electronically a curriculum vitae outlining their qualifications, experience and teaching goals and make arrangements for three letters of reference to be sent to Dr. Brian McNamara, Chair, Department of Physics and Astronomy, University of Waterloo, Waterloo, Ontario, Canada, N2L 3G1. Telephone: (519) 888-4567; extension 36831; E-mail: physics@uwaterloo.ca.

If you have any questions regarding the position, the application process, assessment process, eligibility, or a request for accommodation during the hiring process, please contact Adrian Lupascu, Associate Chair, alupascu@uwaterloo.ca.

The University of Waterloo acknowledges that much of our work takes place on the traditional territory of the Neutral, Anishinaabeg and Haudenosaunee peoples. Our main campus is situated on the Haldimand Tract, the land granted to the Six Nations that includes six miles on each side of the Grand River. Our active work toward reconciliation takes place across our campuses through research, learning, teaching, and community building, and is centralized within our Indigenous Initiatives Office (https://uwaterloo.ca/human-rights-equity-inclusion/indigenousinitiatives).

The University values the diverse and intersectional identities of its students, faculty, and staff. The University regards equity and diversity as an integral part of academic excellence and is committed to accessibility for all employees. The University of Waterloo seeks applicants who embrace our values of equity, anti-racism and inclusion. As such, we encourage applications from candidates who have been historically disadvantaged and marginalized, including applicants who identify as Indigenous peoples (e.g., First Nations, Métis, Inuit/Inuk), Black, racialized, people with disabilities, women and/or 2SLGBTQ+.

The University of Waterloo is committed to accessibility for persons with disabilities. If you have any application, interview or workplace accommodation requests, please contact Adrian Lupascu, Associate Chair, alupascu@uwaterloo.ca.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Three reasons to apply: https://uwaterloo.ca/faculty-association/why-waterloo.